Helping Schools Better Support Students Experiencing Homelessness

Connected Communication, Coordination & Student Support for K-12 Districts

Students and families experiencing homelessness often face barriers that make communication, transportation, and educational continuity more difficult.

CPR^3 helps districts improve coordination between student services, transportation teams, counselors, administrators, and family outreach programs — creating a more connected support system for students who need it most.

Schools Are Facing Growing Challenges

- Difficulty maintaining consistent communication with families
- Students frequently transitioning between temporary living situations
- Transportation coordination complexities
- Limited visibility between departments and support teams
- Connectivity gaps that impact student learning and engagement
- Time-consuming manual coordination processes
